extremely unhappy in these days. All the best known, most conspicuous, most widely read and most influential newspapers of this city unite in expressing gratification and relief that the Mor racing season is almost at an end. All of them have criticised repeatedly and severely the methods which have been practised at Monmouth this summer. The Tribune yesterday re-printed some of the censure published by "The New-York Herald." In yesterday's issue "The Herald" The host that refrained from putting in an appearance

"The New-York World" in its racing column yes terday printed the following pointed comments:

The racing at Monrouth Park yesterday was catirely unworthy of that famous oil race ourse. Other papers printed similar criticisms. New-York Evening Post" declared: "It is a forunate thing for racing that the Monmouth Park meeting is to end this week, for the public is getting disgusted with the methods, and will welcome a change to Sheepshead Bay."

New-York Press' published an article in which Midgeley's riding of Chesapeake was condemned in strong terms, and it was asserted that an investigation ought to be made. That was not the first peculiar race Midgeley has ridden. He code a race on Galilee earlier in the season, when Galilee was an odds-on favorite, and his riding that day had a sulphurous smell about it. And so the zigzag and uneasy course of un-

The opening race had a field of four. Grace ned the best of the lot, and it was surprise to see her the favorite; in fact, 6 to 5, the odds offered, seemed unusually liberal, and can only be accounted for by the plunge on the Bash-ford Manor filly Espanita. The showing that the latter made failed to warrant the support she re-ceived, for at best it was a poor race, with Grace

The third race was the Monmouth Handicap, and The third race was the Monmouth Handicap, and it furnished the only good race of the day. There was some grumbling at the handicapping, but the result was a good contest the whole distance, with Gloaming the winner. The Pepper was the favorite, and Mars second choice Mars was beaten at the end of a mile, but The Pepper hung on to the end, and with better handling might have won. Midgeley took him too far back in the early part of the race, and at the end made his run a trifle too soon. The Kilkenny party was anxious to win. Sims got down to 1012 pounds to ride him, which is about five pounds less than his regular weight. He finished a close fourth. Midgeley gave another poor exhibition on Restraint in the fourth race, which was the Barnegat Stakes, a seiling affair for three-year-olds. The coit is a heavy headed one, who needs a lot of strong riding. This Midgeley did not seem able to give him, and the coit was in and out and all over the track. Kinglet won easily, yet with a stronger rider up Restraint would probably have been second.

rider up Restraint would probably have been second.

Wormser's race was a marked improvement over that of Monday, when his owner backed him heavily. Yesterday he had A. Clayton up, and his showing was a surprise.

Yestibule declined to run in the fifth race, which left Tormentor as Kingston's only competitor. Both had up 112 pounds, and there could be only one result, Kingston winning easily. His owner backed him heavily, his commissioners betting with every book that would take their money.

This was repeated in the last race on Nimrod, who went to the post a 1 to 10 chance. He failed to win, however, and the ring was saved another scorching. Tarai rode the colt well, but Long Beach was too "game" for him in a drive that lasted for three furlongs.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY

THE MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION SUED AN ACTION BROUGHT BY A TAXPAYER TO RE COVER $300,000 FOR VIOLATION OF

THE LOTTERY LAWS. Freehold, N. J., Aug. 22 (Special).-The Monmouth Park Association has another extremely large law suit on its hands. This time it must defend itself against a taxpayer as complainant, who den $300,000 for alleged infringement of the lottery laws of the State. The plaintiff is P. Coleman, of Hoboken, and the suit is brought in the Monmouth Circuit Court. Under the laws of the State a penalty of $2,000 is imposed for every infringement of One-half of the sum collected goes to the county where the suit is brought. this instance 150 infringements are set up in the complaint, making the amount of the penalties the omfortable sum of $300,000. The suit is based on the assumption that the bill which became a law with such scandalous haste at Trenton last winter is unconstitutional. That legislation has been severely attacked from all quarters Under it the license was granted to the Monmouth Park Association. By it also bookmaking became apparently legal. It has been bitterly fought by the Law and Order League, however, zation secured writs of certiorari reviewing the action of the Township Committee of Eatontown ity of the whole law was brought in question. That case is now before the Supreme Court and a de cision is expected early in the fall. If it should be against the association the racetrack people will have an extremely small piece of ground to stand on in defending the present suit.

The association has gone ahead and conducted its cecourse with all the concomitants of bookmakers and the other necessary elements of a modern racetrack under legislation which every careful person considered of somewhat doubtful legality. If that egislation is unconstitutional, the laws existing a the time it apparently took effect naturally are in these laws bookmaking is illegal.

The bout was of four rounds and resulted in a decided surprise, the referee awarding the decision to Plinmer. It is the first decision ever given against the colored champion. Plinmer was aggressive from the start and he was remarkably elever with his left hand, landing frequently. Dixon's vicious swings were eleverly eluded by Plinauer. The result will probably lead to a unish fight between the two men before the Coney Island Athletic Club. Dixon is said to have been dissipating lately. This may account for his defeat.
